Dreams are alive. They can impact our life's journey in constructive ways day by day, and night by night.

Dream Voyaging

is a dreamwork technique that brings the body and an aesthetic sensibility into dream exploration. Dreams may seem ephemeral, dissolving beyond our grasp once we wake up, but dreams live in every sinew and bone of our body.

In this lecture and workshop we will move, draw, and journal with our dream images. Welcoming dream images and stories into conversation with our conscious selves awakens our understanding of our psyche in enlivening and often surprising ways.

Dana Swain,
Ph.D (c), is a movement-based expressive arts practitioner through the Tamalpa Institute with a Masters and Ph.D.* in Jungian and Archetypal psychology. She has facilitated movement-based expressive arts workshops and one-on-one private sessions all over the world, including Africa, Brazil, Australia, and now the United States. As a vivid dreamer, she appreciates the power of dreams to impact, inspire, and empower, and is dedicated to inviting dream images and stories into dialogue with people's life narratives. Let the voyage begin!
